

I wish

I wish you were led by curiosity in learning, I wish you could tell the difference between appearance and essence, fake and value, desire and love, love and selfishness, appreciation and flattering.

I wish you built your relationships on trust and friendships were not influenced by money.

I wish simple things made you happy and you found a source of joy in yourself.

I wish you were not chasing illusions and that you did not feel thirst for power.

I wish you discovered your priorities and avoided hurting others.

I wish you could be as attentive to yourself as to others and that your will did not lose strength while following your dream.

I wish you looked for an answer for the question of who you were and what did your value consist in. As you are and may certainly be valuable if you don't get lost or lazy while searching.

I wish you found a soul mate you would not need to hide from or feel ashamed of.

I wish you could educate yourself for becoming the person you would like to be and you found the right people to show you the right way.

I wish you shared everything you found with others as thus your life could become complete.
